

Ancient living machines that after millennia of stillness suddenly begin to move under their own power, for reasons that remain a mystery to men. Holati Tate discovered them—then disappeared. Trigger Argee was his closest associate—she means to find him. She's brilliant, beautiful, and skilled in every known martial art. She's worth plenty—dead or alive—to more than one faction in this obscure battle. And she's beginning to have a chilling notion that the long-vanished Masters of the Old Galaxy were wise when they exiled the plasmoids to the most distant and isolated world they knew.... (Summary from book jacket) Originally published in 1962 as "A Tale of Two Clocks". (addition by km)

Chapter 01 – 00:18:04
 Chapter 02 – 00:15:04
 Chapter 03 – 00:16:22
 Chapter 04 – 00:19:05
 Chapter 05 – 00:15:57
 Chapter 06 – 00:10:04
 Chapter 07 – 00:12:08
 Chapter 08 – 00:12:25
 Chapter 09 – 00:18:58
 Chapter 10 – 00:17:44
 Chapter 11 – 00:14:08
 Chapter 12 – 00:17:45
 Chapter 13 – 00:13:42
 Chapter 14 – 00:17:56
 Chapter 15 – 00:14:48

Chapter 16 – 00:17:53
 Chapter 17 – 00:16:01
 Chapter 18 – 00:14:41
 Chapter 19 – 00:17:09
 Chapter 20 – 00:19:23
 Chapter 21 – 00:18:30
 Chapter 22 – 00:18:39
 Chapter 23 – 00:18:06
 Chapter 24 – 00:14:35
 Chapter 25 – 00:12:32
 Chapter 26 – 00:20:50
 Chapter 27 – 00:13:22
 Chapter 28 – 00:16:35
 Chapter 29 – 00:17:38

read by peac

www.librivox.org

LibriVox

cd cover design by scott carpenter

JAMES H. SCHMITZ

LEGACY

LEGACY

JAMES H. SCHMITZ